STATE AWAKES TO FIND MURKY SKIES, COOLER WEATHER

Health Department Begins
Efforts to Furnish Drinking Water

PRICE OF MILK JUMPS

Take Measures to Prevent the Spread of Brush and Forest Fires

By International News Service

With official weather forecasts from Washington presaging showers and thunderstorms, Pennsylvania awoke today to a vista of murky skies and receding temperatures with all indications pointing to a break in the heat wave that has gripped the state for weeks.

Developments today were: The State Health Department has begun emergency measures to bring drinking water to communities suffering from serious shortages.

An increase of one cent a quart in the price of milk, beginning August 16, was announced in the Pittsburgh district as a result of the drought. The price per pint remains at eight cents.

First efforts on the part of the Health Department to relieve the situation caused by depleted water supplies in Western Pennsylvania were directed at the towns of Bentleyville, Harmarville, Haysville, Uniontown, Waynesburg, Apollo and Leechburg. Emergency water supplies are being tapped to these communities.

The milk increase was decided upon at a meeting of farmers, dealers and consumers yesterday. The increase will go to the farmers to help meet the depressing economic situation in the rural sections which supply Pittsburgh with milk, it was announced.

Meanwhile, precautionary measures were taken to prevent the spread of brush and forest fires already burning and to prevent the outbreak of others. A trench five miles long was dug by scores of volunteer firefighters to extinguish a blaze that spread over a large territory near Willow, destroyed a store and threatened farm homes.

The monetary loss entailed in fighting forest fires in Allegheny County alone during the last three days was estimated at $15,000. Fire Chief Richard L. Smith declared brush fires were due to "downright carelessness" and called upon Boy Scout organizations to aid in detecting and fighting the sporadic outbreaks.

PERKASIE JEWELER CAPTURES ROBBER

Threatens Him With Shotgun
After Being Aroused
From Sleep

CATCH ONE OTHER MAN

PERKASIE, Aug. 6.—Two youthful, well-dressed robbers, one of them said to be a Philadelphian, were arrested here at 3 a. m. today after one had been discovered in a jewelry store with more than $1,000 worth of jewelry in his pockets.

J. W. Schanley, proprietor of the store, located at 5th and Walnut streets, here, was aroused when one of the men dropped a tray filled with rings on the floor.

Running to the rear of his apartment above the store, Schanley took a double barreled shotgun from a closet and ran to the store in his night clothes.

As he switched on the lights he saw one of the men reaching for several trays of rings in the show window.

Pointing the gun at the robber he ordered him to march to his office in the rear of the store, where he made him stand in a corner with his hands in the air while he telephoned his brother-in-law, Clarence Snyder, a night watchman at Menlo Park, several blocks from the store.

Driving to the store in an automobile, Snyder handcuffed the man, and found a large revolver in his pocket. His pockets also contained thirty-five watches, 58 rings and other pieces of jewelry valued at more than $1,000.

The second man, who apparently had been outside of the shop as a lookout, was captured when he hurried a brick through one of the windows of the shop when all street lights in the section were blinked by the electric company on a signal from police headquarters.

Harry Wambold, a policeman, running toward the shop, after the signals given by the lights, captured the man four blocks away.

At police headquarters he gave his name as George Conners, twenty-two, of Philadelphia, but refused to give his address. His companion, caught in the store, said he was James Blair, twenty-two, of Chicago. Both carried large revolvers.

An investigation revealed Blair had entered the store by climbing through a transom above a rear door which had been left open because of the heat.

HERE AND THERE THRUOUT BUCKS COUNTY

Montessori Camp and School, or "Children's Village," as is the more frequent term, near Wycombe, now in the midst of its 17th summer session, has an enrollment of 106 children, ranging from 2 to 13 years of age.

Children are enrolled from Phoenix, Arizona; Denver, Colo.; several cities in Ohio; Washington, D. C.; from ten other states; from every section of Pennsylvania, and a family of 5 comes from Havana, Cuba. The father of this family is learning English while here. A large percentage of the children are from the cities of New York and Philadelphia. About the same percentage of the campers are children who have fathers who are in the legal or medical profession. There are several instances where the children are there because their parents are traveling abroad.

Started in 1914, by Mrs. Anna Paist Ryan, who had previously studied in Italy under the guidance of Dr. Maria Montessori, the camp has gained national recognition. It has the name of being the first and largest of its kind, because it offers camp training to young children and because it is a scientifically balanced camp and school.

There are six separate age groups as follows: junior boys, junior girls, intermediate girls, intermediate boys, senior girls and senior boys.

The staff of thirty, headed by Mrs. Ryan, includes four graduate nurses, 6 house mothers, eight instructors, and a score of assistant counselors. All of the instructors have either had college educations or special training for their work.

The health of the children is looked after carefully. Each child's temperature is taken every morning and they are weighed once a week. There has been only one illness reported thus far this season.

During the camp season this year, as has been the custom, the older boys will be taken on a week's trip to Niagara Falls. This year the girls are going on a trip to Fredericksburg, Va. The season will close on August 27, but the school in connection with the school enrollment this fall will be about fifty.

Next Saturday the Doylestown Country Club golfers who have been asked to participate in the interclub match will travel to the Bucks County Country Club at Langhorne for a return encounter. Earlier in the season Doylestown easily defeated Langhorne on the Doylestown course. The tournament committee has posted a list of players at the club house here whom they deem eligible to play.

Large increases in alfalfa yields are being secured in a test on the farm of Joseph S. Briggs, Newtown, by the use of commercial fertilizers applied when the alfalfa was seeded.

The use of a fertilizer containing both phosphorous and potash in equal amounts or a 0-10-0 mixture has raised the yield from 3620 pounds per acre of hay in two cuttings to 6,946

CAPTAIN HAWKS OUT TO BEAT LINDY'S TIME

Hops Off from Curtiss Field
For Across U. S.
Flight

HIS WIFE SEES HIM OFF

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 6.—(INS)—In an attempt to establish new records for speed flights across the United States and return, Captain Frank M. Hawks hopped off here this morning at 6 o'clock (E. D. T.) for Los Angeles.

Hawks expects to make the trip from east to west in 15 hours. The record is 18 hours and 40 minutes, held by Lieut. Colonel Roscoe Turner.

The aviator's wife was in a group of 100 which watched the take-off.

At the last minute Hawks announced a change in plans. He will not attempt the return flight from Los Angeles to New York until he has rested in Los Angeles for several days. He said he planned to play a game of golf in Los Angeles late this afternoon at the Hollywood Country Club. He said he would play with C. M. Hawks, his father, and R. N. Herndon and E. R. Holmes, both Los Angeles Oil Company officials.

Hawks said on his return trip he would assault the west to the east record of fourteen hours and seven minutes held by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

HIT BY BOARD

Struck upon the head by a board thrown by Dominick DeCarlo, of Chestnut street, yesterday, Anthony Cordisco, of 1013 Elm street, suffered a contused laceration. One stitch was taken in the wound at the Harriman Hospital.

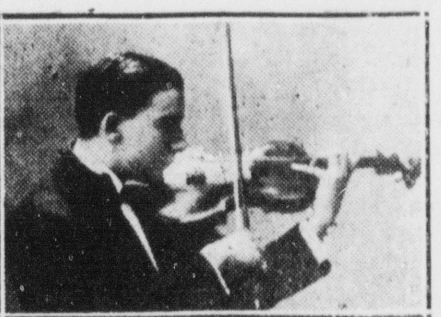

Dr. James Collins has returned from a lengthy trip in Canada.

pounds per acre. The use of phosphorous alone or an 0-10-0 mixture gave a yield of 3,933 pounds of hay while potash alone yielded 4,983 pounds. A 3-10-10 fertilizer yielded 6,564 pounds of hay per acre.

The alfalfa was seeded last August on a well-prepared seed bed on which the fertilizers had been broadcast in one-tenth acre plots.

Alfalfa which has the ability to draw its nitrogen from the air uses large amounts of both phosphorous and potash from the soil. Unless these are replaced the yields are low and the stand thins out before it should. The Ohio Experiment Station found that an 0-12-12 fertilizer increased the yields 11 per cent, the year applied, 32 per cent, the next year and 48 per cent, the third year. Besides increased yields the fertilized alfalfa had a much thicker and sturdier stand, after three years than the unfertilized alfalfa.

Accomplished Violinist

of Bristol, who is meeting with splendid success while studying in Italy, and appearing in concerts and operas in cities of that country.

BRISTOL MUSICIAN APPEARS IN ITALY

Joseph R. Lanza Plays in Numerous Italian Cities While Studying Abroad

PROVES ADEPT STUDENT

Many public appearances are being made in Italian cities by Joseph R. Lanza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lanza, of Bristol, an accomplished violinist.

The young man, who is studying the violin under Maestro Vacchi, a well-known and noted professor in the world of music in Milan, has advanced greatly in his chosen work, and his efforts are being crowned with success.

Lanza has been endeavoring to perfect his career, and has been an adept student of the violin for some years. Recently, before the student left Milan for Sicily he appeared in concert numbers. Operas in which he appeared in the former city included "Leggenda," "Liebestraum," and "Adoration." At present he is playing in concert in Sicily.

Since his boyhood, Joseph has been given every opportunity to have a successful career. Splendid support was given his efforts by his parents, and he studied under several leaders in Bristol, Philadelphia and New York. He sailed for Italy three years ago.

According to Maestro Vacchi, in order for a musician to be more "free" and alert before the public, he must acquire public interest by making appearances frequently.

On numerous occasions the Bristol boy has played accompaniments for his uncle, G. Mario Lanza, a well-known tenor.

CHECK FORGERS GET JAIL TERMS IN COUNTY COURT

Austin and Johnson Plead
Guilty to Forgery
Charge

DISCHARGE GUARACINO

Fourteen-Year-Old Phila. Lad is Put on Probation
by Judge

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 6.—George E. Austin, of near Siles, and Richard Johnson, of Philadelphia, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to a charge of forgery. Johnson was arrested on three charges and was sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory, while Austin, a farmer, who forged eight checks, was sentenced to not less than one nor more than two years in the county prison.

Both of these men forged checks and passed several of them in the Bristol section of Bucks county.

Judge Boyer yesterday discharged Joseph Guaracino, 14, of Philadelphia, and placed him on probation for a period of one year. In juvenile court he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a bungalow belonging to Clayton MacKenzie, at Siles. Two other youths arrested on the same charge will be tried in criminal court.

Judge Hiram H. Keller sentenced Ralph Kauffman, 19, of Lehigh county, to serve not less than one year nor more than two years in the county prison and then suspended the sentence and placed him on probation for three years. Kauffman pleaded guilty to a charge of felonious entry of a refreshment stand near Quakertown a month ago. He was shot in the left foot by a trap gun as he entered the building and was later arrested in an Allentown Hospital.

Judge Keller placed Abraham Detweiler, 19, of New Galena on probation for one year and fined him $25 and costs yesterday after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing fifty gallons of gasoline from a well-drilling machine near New Galena that he used to operate his own automobile. Detweiler was arrested by Trooper McGinn, of the State Police.

PERKASIE PLANT EXPENSES INCREASE

Net Earnings for Month of July $615.04, Decrease of $1,000

INCREASED VALUATION

PERKASIE, Aug. 6.—The Perkasio electric light plant showed a sudden drop in profits in the month of July, it was announced at the regular meeting of Borough Council held in the borough hall.

Net earnings for the past month amounted to $615.04, it was shown by the report of the treasurer, while July of 1929 showed a net clear income of $1,600.68 on electricity.

This drop of nearly $1,000 in one month in the earnings of the municipal plant is accounted for by the increased valuation of the plant, and a number of other factors.

The increased valuation of the plant, now worth $100,000 more than it was last year, has increased the depreciation figure on the machinery to a great extent. Another contributory cause of the drop in profits in the increase in expense, the plant having cost $500 a month more to operate this year than it did last.

Added consumers within the borough limits, through the annexation of a large section of East Rockhill township, has also brought about a lowering of income, to help it attain the extreme low figure.

Last year the consumers in the recently acquired section were paying a higher rate for current, as they were outside the borough limits, but with the annexation they became eligible for current at the regular borough rates.

Another important financial matter took council's attention, when the borough was presented with a bill for $1,700.80 by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company.

This sum is said to be the amount paid by the utility company for the lines in the newly annexed territory, and which now must become the property of the borough, so that current can be distributed over them.

Several stitches were required in a deep gash under the young man's eye. Mannherz had repaired the engine of his car, and as a friend operated the machine, Mannherz stretched himself upon the running board, watching the motor. It was when the car reached a point at the upper end of Edgely that he was thrown to the ground.

The young man has had a series of mishaps in the past few months, having recently fractured his wrist while cranking his car, and having suffered to such an extent with appendicitis that he was forced to undergo an operation.

TINICUM MAN'S NERVES BROKE UNDER STRAIN

J. Harvey Haney Signs Confession for The County Authorities

IS WELL-TO-DO FARMER

Was Hospital Patient on Numerous Occasions At Norristown

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 6.—A well-to-do farmer, 46 years of age, who is married and the father of two children and who owns three farms, "broke" today and admitted to County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse and other county officials that he twice fired his own barn which on both occasions was totally destroyed.

The man, J. Harvey Haney, Tinicum Township, Bucks County, informed the officials that he suffers "depressed feelings" and that on numerous occasions has been an inmate of the State Hospital for the Insane at Norristown.

The confession of Haney was made this morning at 4 o'clock and signed in the presence of witnesses.

Haney is considered "well fixed" insofar as wealth is concerned. He has been a prosperous farmer. He owns three farms and all three are clear of debt. The act of firing the barns was not done for the purpose of obtaining money, as Haney did not need money.

In the confession of Haney made today he says that on February 2, 1929, he made a block of wood, drilled a hole in it and placed therein a candle. "I knew this was wrong and did not want to do any harm," states the confessed incendiary, "so I gave it to my wife."

The confession continues by stating that on the morning of February 22, 1929, Haney arose at 5 o'clock. He lighted the fire in the kitchen stove and went out to feed his stock. His brother-in-law, Walter Kramer, was assisting him. Kramer was milking the cows and Haney was feeding the stock. Haney went to the threshing floor above, struck a match and set fire to the straw in the mow. He then returned to the ground floor of the barn and started to assist with the milking. Kramer soon discovered the fire and released the stock which consisted of seven cows and three horses. The barn on this occasion was totally destroyed.

The stock was moved to the farm of Kramer, and Haney's sister took her brother to a Philadelphia physician for a mental examination. He had suffered a nervous breakdown in the spring of 1929.

Returning to his home he assisted in clearing up the debris of the fire and aided in the rebuilding of the barn, which was completed about May 30, 1929.

Haney was an inmate of the State Hospital for a month during the spring of 1929 and also in December, 1929, and May of this year. He left the hospital about June 10, 1930, and returned to his home.

The desire to fire the barn returned to Haney, and on August 1, 1930, he helped a neighbor thresh oats and worked until 10 o'clock that night. Then he returned to his home and went to bed. On August 2nd he threshed wheat and aided in the milking at his own place. He was suddenly afflicted with the "depressed feeling" and went to the threshing floor above and set fire to the oat straw. He then left and went on a picnic to Riegelsville where at 7:30 that evening he was informed by an acquaintance that his barn had been destroyed by fire. Haney got his family and returned to his farm about 10:30. He inquired as to the safety of the stock and was told that the only stock saved from the flames were three horses.

Monday, Haney informed his wife that he had fired the barn. Tuesday he went to visit his sister again and remained there until the State Police placed him under arrest on Tuesday.

The first fire caused Haney to lose about $6,000 and the second blaze caused a loss of $11,000. All of his crops were burned, as well as eight cows, two heifers and 13 pigs.

RECOGNIZING STATES

The National Advisory Committee on Education, one of President Hoover's creations, is on safe ground in warning against increased Federal control of educational activities which belong to the states. Such control has been insidiously expanding through grants from the Federal treasury which must be matched by the states and are conditioned on their use to promote particular types of training.

There is no inconsistency in the recommendation of the committee that the Federal Government liberally support education but depart from its present policy of buying from the states their powers in the field of public education. Federal school grants to the states should not be conditional on the states surrendering some of their control of the schools to the national government.

Creation of a Federal department of education as proposed by some groups would conflict with the principle laid down by the Hoover committee, since the plain purpose of such a department would be to extend and strengthen Federal control of the nation's education system and to set up a powerful and costly bureaucracy at Washington to meddle with matters that are strictly the business of the sovereign states.

While the committee has not expressed its views on the matter of a Federal department of education it cannot consistently favor this proposed addition to the Federal bureaucracy.

THE SILLY REDS

It looks as if the overthrow of the United States Government will have to be postponed until the vermillion-tinted gentry compose their differences. Just at this moment there seems to be too much discord among the communists to permit of that unity of action which is essential to a successful revolution.

The communist party in America has a quarrel with Soviet leaders in Russia over details of the American campaign, rather than over principles and theories. The several communist groups and cliques in the United States are constantly trying to outdo each other in outlanking the others and expelling their own members for heresy or unorthodoxy. There is but a handful of red-flag wavers left on Columbia's shores and when you divide them into right and left wings, extremists and conservatives, and the several other subdivisions and creeds but a corporal's guard remains at headquarters to cheer for the Internationale.

Americans do not fool themselves when they look upon the communist movement here as a joke. The great mass of Americans do not believe in fallacious political theories expounded by fanatics and ambitious revolutionaries, so there is nothing to fear from communism. Not even critical unemployment and suffering could convince the nation that Moscow rather than Washington has the right idea.

Some people go about a thing while others talk it.

Standardization of streets begins with gas stations on all corners and a midget golf course in each block.

SHOW of SHOWS

 Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
 "Show of Shows," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone picture was the source for the material on which these stories are based.

SYNOPSIS

Leo Hanlon meets Queenie Quinn, Hollywood script girl, who lands him an extra role in "Show of Shows," the musical revue film. Leo appears in numbers starring John Barrymore and Monte Blue. Queenie, who takes more than a business interest in Leo, advises him to learn the "inside" of picture production. As the shooting of "Show of Shows" continues, Hanlon takes part in a comedy number with Lupino Lane and in the grand finale. The latter scene, strangely enough, is shot when the picture is only half completed.

INSTALLMENT NINE

Georges Carpentier, fresh from triumph in the theatre of Paris, was one of the picturesque principals of "Show of Shows." The friendliest of persons, Georges was not slow in becoming a favorite with the humbler players. Like

"My tights are packed in camphor, 'My gloves hang on the wall, 'I'm through with the game,' 'He's through with the game,' is the assurance of girls) 'And yet my fighting instinct 'Will not let me quit at all, 'It's really a shame,' 'He says it's a shame,' chorus the girls.) 'I used to lick a fellow who was nearly twice my size, 'But I have no defense at all 'For a pair of beautiful eyes, 'A pretty girl can knock me out, 'I hear them counting ten, 'But when another comes along, 'I get right up again.' Having confessed these weaknesses, which are after all only human, Georges finds expression for his ambitions in the refrain, as follows: 'If I could learn to love 'As well as I fight, 'How I would like to train 'On a beautiful night, most athletes, he had an abundance of excess energy and this he vented in clowning around the lot.

One day he entertained a huge audience demonstrating to Alice White the necessity of keeping the chin sheltered. Alice, who appeared with the French athlete in the Eiffel Tower scene, sparred gamely and once or twice managed to thrust her dainty fist into the middle of Georges' radiant grin. She despaired of inflicting any permanent damage on him, however, and shortly called upon Patsy Ruth Miller to take up the fight. Miss Miller pleaded other plans.

It was easy to perceive that Carpentier had brought more than athletic prestige to the pictures. His was an engaging personality and his voice surprisingly pleasant in song. Indeed his singing of "If I Could Learn to Love" was indubitably the most attractive feature of the Eiffel Tower scene.

Under the guidance of the tireless Mr. Haskell, the chorus girls, captained by Alice White and Patsy Ruth Miller, descend upon Georges with every indication of affection. Georges demurs and there ensues an amiable argument, words by Herman Ruby feebly translated by M. K. Jerome. Georges laments his amorous shortcomings thus:

"I'd keep aiming from the start
 "For a blow right to the heart,
 "And I'd learn to use my might,
 "In a romantic bout;
 "I wish I could win,
 "Just knock Cupid out.
 "With a left on the chin,
 "Oh, what a picnic this would be!
 "Wouldn't this world be tres foi
 "If I could learn to love
 "As well as I fight."
 "Then, by way of impressing upon any casual watchers that he meant what he sang, Georges vanished to a time. When he returned he wore instead of the faultless morning at tire of the boulevards, a gym suit. Likewise the girls prepared themselves for Georges' gym class. There they were then, grouped in front of an admirable replica of the Eiffel Tower, performing one of Mr. Haskell's novelty dances. The number was a skillful combination of a setting-up exercise and tap dances retaining the best, and most difficult, features of each.
 "In the buffoonish interchanges with Miss White and Miss Miller Georges also proved himself a deft light comedian. His altogether winning performance gave assurance that he will prove quite as glamorous a screen figure as he was a ring electrifier.

YOU bet it's alive—but it's no freak—this newest gasoline. It had to be alive to keep pace with modern motors and their new fuel requirements.

The makers of Mobiloil knew, as you do, that cars and motors have changed. They knew that the modern motor needs a modern fuel. Mobilgas is modernized by Vacuum's process of distillation.

It's right for the car you drive today... in anti-knock, in cleanliness, in economy, in every phase of performance. And the price is the same as the price of regular gasoline.

ELECTIONS MAY CHANGE GERMAN POLICIES

NEW YORK, July 30.—What will be the chief result when order is brought out of Germany's political chaos with new Reichstag elections this fall?

This is the question being asked in European capitals following dissolution of the Reichstag by President von Hindenburg as punishment for its intransigence in refusing to sanction Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's financial program.

The actual dissolution, forecast for weeks, caused no surprise, but the probable complexion of the new Reichstag, together with changes in political policies which are bound to follow, are arousing considerable interest.

Various changes are being predicted. Some reports say the dissolution is the first step on the road to reorganizing the German government's legislative system on lines similar to that of the United States. Others hint it has paved the way for establishment of a permanent dictatorship.

In all probabilities, however, the result will be nothing so sensational. The principal achievement will be a "weeding out" of various minor but troublesome elements in the Reichstag, and the solidification of political power in a smaller number of major parties. At the time the last Reichstag went out of office, there were some thirty-four political parties in Germany, and more than twenty actually represented in the body. Each had its own shade of opinion and its own "philosophy"—an integral part of German politics. Each party represented a certain portion of the population, for the ideals and prejudices which existed when Germany was a vast agglomeration of separate kingdoms, still persist to a large extent.

The changes which inevitably will take place may be subtle, but they promise to be far-reaching. For one thing, it appears that the Fascist Party in Germany will benefit to the greatest extent in the new elections, raising a hitherto comparatively minor organization to one of paramount importance in that country.

In addition, a number of small parties are likely to be wiped out altogether, with the surviving large ones shuffling the political cards to their best possible advantage. At this early date, a coalition between the National forces of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg and the Fascist ranks is anticipated. With Nationalist support, the Fascists will be in a dominant position. This coalition may be of great international importance.

The Fascists have been the most eloquent opponents of the Versailles Treaty, have openly repudiated it as illegal and extorted from Germany by duress, and have been unflinching in their demands for revision. Only a few weeks ago one of the Fascist leaders in Berlin told International News Service, that if his party ever obtained power, its first act would be to throw out the treaty and all its ramifications, including reparations, lock, stock and barrel.

The Fascist cause in Germany as regards the Versailles Treaty has been considerably bolstered of late by growing sentiment in favor of revision. Chancellor Brüning's government itself demanded it in replying to Aristide Briand's suggestion for a European Economic Federation.

During the hectic years which have followed the war, Germany has been guided by the patient and self-effacing policies of the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann. Even in death Stresemann has continued to lead Germany, for this last government, in common with all its predecessors, accepted the burdens of the war with patient resignation, holding that the only hope of relief for the future lay in acquiescence, so far as possible, to the demands of the victor nations.

But whether the late Herr Stresemann's influence still is great enough to sway the growing wave of anti-Versailles sentiment is a moot question. Adherence to the Stresemann policies earned Germany evacuation of the Rhineland five years ahead of time. Continuation of these policies might easily prove the best means of freeing Germany from the heavy war burdens with which she has been saddled.

But with rise of Fascist power is bound to come increasing opposition to the French political hegemony created by the Versailles Treaty, and the German Republic may find itself, soon after the new elections on September 14, standing full-ripped against France on the bitter subject of post-war problems. Time alone can tell whether Fascism will plunge Germany into new international embroglios, or on the other hand, hasten the day when she may legally cease payment for her defeat in the world war.

EMILIE WINS LAST GAME OF TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Last Night's Result
EMILIE, 6; FEDERALS, 4
(By T. M. Juno)

The final game of the Bristol Twilight League was played on St. Ann's field last evening when the Emilie Y. M. A. took the Federals into camp by the score of 6-4.

The game was played very fast, and despite the fact that many players were left on base, the teams managed to play seven innings.

The winners outdid the Federals, 10-7, and half of the Emilie blows were good for extra bases. In all, there were three doubles and two triples in the collection of base blows.

Watson, besides pitching a commendable game, garnered three of his team's ten hits and gave his batting average a big boost. B. Prall, Satterthwaite, Dugan and Cooper had two hits each.

Perkasie Plant Expenses Increase

The Pennsylvania Power and Light just recently purchased the lines in that section, which had been privately owned. According to the statement of William Notter, who was present at the meeting, the figure of $1,700.80 covers the exact amount put out by the utility company in purchasing the lines.

Council declined to accept the bill until it was completely itemized, outlining all the expenses involved.

A complaint of the residents of Walnut street, South Perkasie, was heard, ed to put a stop to the nuisance, and with regard to the speedway which to arrest all violators of the motor laws in the borough.

FAST SUCCESS STORY NO. 8
ALICE WHITE

A keen-eyed director spotted Alice pounding the keys of a studio typewriter. In a few short years a new White star rose in Hollywood's heavens. Alice White was endowed by Nature with a special charm to thrill the millions.

OLD GOLD, too, is one of Nature's favorites. Endowed with mellow, sweeter tobaccos. It gave to millions a brand new taste-thrill, without a trace of throat-irritation. That's why OLD GOLD broke into the "Big-4" in less than a year, that's why today it's the country's fastest growing cigarette from coast to coast.
